

Medical Director and Chief Psychiatric Officer, PA Dept. of Human Services, Office of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services

Dr. Usman completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and his medical degree at New York Medical College. He later obtained a master of medical management degree at Carnegie Mellon University. His post-graduate training included an internship in internal medicine at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh, followed by a residency in adult psychiatry and a fellowship in behavioral neurology at the University of Pittsburgh. With thirty years experience in psychiatry and neuropsychiatry, Dr. Usman has worked in a dementia research clinic, a state hospital, outpatient mental health, residential programs, ACT teams and a dual-diagnosis team. Most recently, he was the regional medical director for Merakey Behavioral Health for 10 years before taking on the role of medical director at OMHSAS in 2018. Dr. Usman is board-certified in psychiatry and holds additional certifications in community and public psychiatry, medical management and disaster medicine.