

Dr. Cynthia Macri – SVP & Chief Medical Officer (CMO)

Dr. Cynthia Macri brings over 35 years of experience as a U.S. Navy Medical Officer, board-certified in Obstetrics and Gynecology and Gynecologic Oncology, to the EagleForce Health team. In addition to her previous work in Women's Health care and cancer prevention and management, her expertise focused on strategies to improve population health, disease prevention, cultural competency, minority health, health/educational/economic disparities, and creating healthy communities. Her broad-based knowledge and executive leadership experience in graduate medical education, strategy and policy development, and research contributes to launching EagleForce's exclusive and cutting edge technology in advanced and predictive analytics into the healthcare and academic spaces.

Dr. Macri holds a current license to practice Medicine in Maryland and volunteers at two community level free clinics, providing specialty and primary care to underserved population.

